AUTO#3: WORLD IN ACTION

Latest issue of AUTO goes around the world with an array of features on safety, sustainability, technology and innovation

AUTO, the international journal of the FIA family, has launched its third issue, featuring major global reports covering Formula One, the World Rally Championship and UN Road Safety Week.

The centrepiece of the issue is an exclusive interview with the Slim family, the richest in the world, covering everything from Formula One and the global economy to road safety and infrastructure. AUTO finds out what's next on the agenda for the family that currently has motor sport and motoring firmly in their sights.

One of their goals is to help improve road safety in Mexico and this cause is also being promoted around the world by a new campaign from the Commission for Global Road Safety, which was established by the FIA Foundation. During this year's UN Road Safety Week, the Commission launched the Long Short Walk campaign, which has so far seen tens of thousands of people in almost 50 countries walking over 100,000 kilometres to call for improvements in pedestrian protection. AUTO reports on the latest from the frontline of the campaign.

Safety improvements have also been established on the track, with a new tracking system in the World Rally Championship and work on a new side impact system set to be introduced into Formula One. AUTO offers access to all these areas and speaks to the people behind the action.

This edition also includes usual news, features, interviews and photography from motor sport and motoring across the world.

Each issue of AUTO is sent free-of-charge to selected high-level individuals in the motoring and motor sport industries.
