

Visas for 2017 Formula 1 Australian Grand Prix Participants

All non-Australian and New Zealand citizens must have a visa to enter and remain in Australia.

Visa holders need to know and understand the conditions of their visa including whether they have permission to work.

People found to be working illegally can have their visa cancelled and risk being detained and removed from Australia. Employers can also be fined or face criminal charges if they wilfully engage illegal workers so please follow these instructions carefully.

Participants applying for the subclass 400 visa

The subclass 400 visa is a temporary visa that lets you enter Australia to participate in an event or to undertake short-term, highly specialised, non-ongoing work.

You can stay in Australia for up to three months where required.

You must be outside Australia when you apply for this visa and when your application is decided.

You must arrive in Australia within six months of the date the visa is granted.

- have enough money to support yourself and any accompanying family members while you are in Australia
- have the support of the inviting organisation (Australian Grand Prix Corporation)
